THANKSGIVING.

To-day is appointed a national holiday and day of thanksgiving. How far it is possible to teach a spirit of thankfulness by government proclamation is a question, but no doubt at the close of the season of production is a suitable time for such a spirit to be given expression, publicly and otherwise. Whatever may be the case in other parts of the country the people of this region have good reason to be satisfied with the course of events in the past year. Crops have been good, particularly wheat and roots. Oats have been light in some localities, and barley has been an average crop. Samples in all cases are good. Pasture was abundant and good for a longer season than usual. Hay was also abundant and a large surplus has been provided. Cattle and live stock generally have been free from disease, and are now generally in excellent condition. On the whole the farming community of this district are commencing the winter under most favorable conditions. The business of the year has been fairly good, but owing to low prices of produce and the financial depression elsewhere it has not been as profitable as was expected. The fur trade showed an increase in volume over last year. A greater quantity of gold was mined on the river. The immigration was as large as could reasonably be expected, or as was desirable considering the poor circumstances of many of the immigrants. Although the immigration was so large it did not make any very great difference to the trade of the place, partly because of the system pursued by the immigrants of outfitting themselves at Winnipeg or other eastern points; the rate on settlers effects being so much lower than the ordinary commercial rate that they can do this at a profit. Although the settlers coming in were not as a rule very well off in cash, they were all farmers, all are now on their claims and developing them as quickly as hard work can do it, and in another year or two when their crops have yielded their return the effect of their presence will begin to be felt. The experiment made by the Edmonton creamery company last season although not immediately successful financially has shown the way to financial success, which will no doubt be followed by that company next season and by other companies as well. The wet blanket on the business situation is the low price of farm produce. This is partly due to low prices elsewhere and partly to excessive freight rates. Even were the rates not plainly excessive as compared with the rates given other points, this district and every other in the country is entitled to such rate as will enable its produce to reach a market and leave a living price to the producer. To bring this about would be the most vigorous immigration policy that the government and the railway company could enter upon and the one that would be most certainly successful. It will be the constant effort of this paper in common with everyone interested in the district to keep this suggestion constantly and prominently before the government and railway authorities, with the view of still further increasing the causes of thankfulness already in this region at this season.

BALLOTING BY COLOR.

The Regina Standard in alluding to the Northwest ballot law proves to its own satisfaction, 1st that the ordinance does not provide that the ballot shall be counted according to the color which appears on its face, without regard to the shape of the marking, and 2nd, that on general principles only ballots marked in the form of an X should be counted. In regard to the first point: Section 37 reads that the deputy returning officer "shall count the number cast for each candidate according to the color marked upon the face of each ballot paper." The proviso of the same section as to what shall be considered a spoiled ballot reads "If from any cause the intention of any voter has not been made apparent by the color of the mark or marks on a ballot paper" etc., etc., such paper shall be considered a spoiled ballot paper. If the main part of the section does not make it perfectly clear that color and color only shall count, certainly the proviso describing minutely what and what only shall constitute a spoiled ballot paper, and in which no mention is made of a ballot paper being spoiled by being marked otherwise than with an X, should do so. The Standard and some of the returning officers seem to have been confused on this point by the direction contained in a previous section, 22, which is given by the deputy returning officer to the voter namely, that he is to mark his ballot in the form of an X. They jump to the conclusion that because he is directed to do so if he does not do it he shall lose his vote. That is not the intent of the ordinance. The direction is given because the X is the common and most distinct and convenient form. If the voter does not choose to follow the direction his vote is counted just the same, but if, as the Standard suggests, he has marked his ballot otherwise in order that his vote may be identified, he becomes liable to the penalty provided in section 86, namely a fine not exceeding $100 and costs. The idea is that the voter should be held responsible for his own acts, and be punished for his own offences, rather than that an election contest should turn, as so many do turn, on the mis-marking of one or more ballots, in most cases done by accident.

A SQUEAL.

The South Edmonton News signals its second issue by an article addressed to speculators, pointing out the disadvantages real and imaginary under which Edmonton labors in not being situated at South Edmonton. It is really too bad of course that everybody cannot live and do business at South Edmonton and altogether unaccountable that so many people do not want to. But the speculators to whom the News so particularly and almost pathetically addresses itself are scarcely likely to be influenced by its information or arguments in favor of its place of publication, when its article clearly shows that notwithstanding the disadvantages of deep valley and broad river to be crossed to reach the railway, the business of the country is still practically done in Edmonton, the only and original Edmonton—spelled with a large capital "E," and don't forget it. No doubt there are certain disadvantages in the situation of Edmonton, which disadvantages it is the effort and object of the citizens to overcome in good time,—as they certainly will be overcome. In the meantime, if there were no compensating advantages weighing in favor of Edmonton no doubt it would soon lose the trade of the country; but the fact that it has not lost that trade and on the contrary is increasing its trade every month and year proves without any other evidence that these compensating and more than compensating advantages as compared with other places, exist. What Edmonton is and has it does not owe to government favor or to the influence of speculators. It is what it is, and has what it has, by reason of natural advantages and the improvement of those advantages by its inhabitants, not to the detriment or to decay or injury any other part of the country or any other place in the country, but to the advantage of the whole country and of every place in reach of its influence. It is to everyone's advantage that there should be large and well stocked stores, wholesale houses, banks and all the other accessories of commerce and civilization somewhere in this region, and in the concentration of these at Edmonton, nobody is hurt unless it may be some real estate speculators who gambled on the concentration of business taking place at some other point. No doubt Edmonton is at something of a disadvantage in doing business with the settlements on the south side of the river, for lack of a bridge and on account of the present inconvenient situation of the railway terminus. But these disadvantages will be overcome. It is cheaper to bridge the river and build the railway to the town than to move the town to the railway, even if that were necessary in the interests of the town alone. But the bridge will have to be built and the railway extended to meet the needs of the country irrespective of the town, and the chief care that Edmonton has in the matter is, in common with South Edmonton, namely, that when the bridge is built and the railway extended across the river it shall be at this point. In the meantime the lack of better communication with the railway station helps to secure the trade of the north side of the river to Edmonton, on the principle that it is cheaper for one merchant to bring his goods across the river than it is for his two or three hundred customers to cross the river to buy on the south side. The same is true to a certain extent in the case of grain sold for shipment, as the grain business hitherto done and the additional grain warehouses now being erected amply testify. The fact of the largest area of arable land in the vicinity of Edmonton lying on the north side of the river plainly gives Edmonton the advantage in regard to the bulk of the grain trade of the district. When to this advantage in respect of the immediate vicinity is added the advantage as to the trade of the far north—the Mackenzie basin and the Peace river—an area of 1,500 by 800 miles, it is not difficult to see how Edmonton holds its own and constantly improves its position, notwithstanding present railway disadvantages and government neglect, and how it is likely to continue to do so irrespective of the editorial remarks of the News. This is a big country. There is room in it for more than one or two people or institutions or towns or even cities. If there were not it would not be worth much. Under such circumstances it is poor business to decry any part of the country or any place in it, especially if the suspicion of business jealousy necessarily attaches to the unfavorable criticism. The people of to-day, speculators included, are sharp enough to notice the motive and discount the criticism accordingly. Suckers are not taking bait readily at present.

GENERAL NEWS.
The output of the Dominion Coal company's mines in Cape Breton this season aggregated one million tons.

Owing to the increasing intensity of race prejudice in the Southern states, the negroes are getting up in thousands and emigrating to Liberia. Thus the negro question which promised at no distant day to become a cancer in the body politic is solving itself.

Free Press: Mr. Stephen Lines, market gardener, of St. Vital, exhibited several splendid specimens of tubers on Saturday afternoon. To a Free Press reporter, the peculiarity being that all were grown from sprouts of several bushels of rotting potatoes. Mr. Lines had three samples of Early Rose and two of Early Puritans, and the five combined weighed nearly six pounds. The sprouts were not planted until June 25 and vines were killed on Sept. 17, showing remarkable growth. From the sprouts cut from three bushels of the old potatoes Mr. Lines dug eighteen bushels and eighteen pounds and is well pleased with the experiment.

Regina Standard: We have already referred to the defeat of Messrs Tweed, Jelly, and Davidson. Reports from St. Albert were for a time conflicting, but the official returns give Mr. Maloney a majority of 95 over Mr. Prince. We have no knowledge of the causes which led to the defeat of the late representative, but we very much regret it, and we are confident that our sentiment is that of a vast majority of the members of the assembly, as well as of all Regimans who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. On one or two important questions Mr. Prince held views opposed to those of the majority, and while he never seemed to miss an opportunity to present these views, he invariably did so with a courtesy and a consideration for the opinions of others which at once bespoke him a gentleman. His geniality made him a general favorite, and whether at banquet or impromptu concert his voice when raised in song found ready chorus. Who will now lead in the soul-stirring "Marsellaise" and mirth-provoking "Allouette"? We hope Mr. Boucher will prove equal to the task, but we imagine that at times the song will be: "Have you seen John Maloney with his tall beaver hat?" The defeat of Mr. Wilkins is equally surprising. He took much interest in the routine work of the house, and scrutinized closely almost every clause of every bill. In committee of the whole, where the legislation is principally put into shape he frequently offered valuable suggestions, which were not noted in the summarized newspaper reports. We understand that instead of frittering away his district grant on small jobs, he conserved it for the erection of a substantial bridge across the Red Deer river. This was a commendable act, if not a popular one. Mr. Wilkins' whole course was an honorable and consistent one, and we feel with the Edmonton Bulletin that his own townsmen at least should have stood more unitedly by him.

Macleod Gazette: We are sorry to see that the Gov't appears to have definitely decided on the policy of reducing the N. W. M. Police. For the past year or two, there has been little or no recruiting, and as very few time-expired men have been re-engaged, the natural consequence of the drain at one end without an intake at the other is that at the present time, the force instead of being a thousand strong, numbers not more than seven hundred officers and men all told. This process of reduction has been and is being helped on too by an inexorable law, lately introduced, that when a man has been guilty of a certain number of offences against discipline, he is shown the gate, or in other words dismissed the force.

There is the still further and very forcible argument that Canada has, in any event, to maintain a certain number of trained soldiers, and that they might just as well be maintained as mounted police, where they are doing work which gives a direct return to the country, as in the centers of population in the east, where they are soldiers and soldiers only. The police, the batteries, and the schools correspond to what in other countries would be called the regular service, and few except the most bigoted and ignorant will deny that Canada is getting off very cheaply in having to maintain only the comparatively small number of men included in these three branches. The country has been fortunate in not having required more soldiers, but it would be the acme of folly to do away with those we have on that account. And if any are to be done away with, to not commence with those who are giving a direct return for the investment in them, who are yearly giving numbers of capital settlers to the country, and who are making the North-West a possible, peaceable and pleasant place to live in.

T. W. LINES visited Wetaskiwin on Tuesday's train, and returned on Wednesday.

S. R. REID, of Winnipeg Saturday Night is writing up Fort Saskatchewan for that paper.

MR. GREENWOOD, of Lethbridge, son-in-law of Mrs. Stewart of Clover Bar, arrived on Monday's train.

THE fencing exhibition given at last night's concert by M. De Roux and Count Nigroni, was something new in Edmonton and was very attractive. Both gentlemen are evidently experts.

OATS are quoted at 18c to 20c for shipment and up to 22c for local consumption.

THE Young People's Union of the Baptist church, Edmonton, on next Lord's day evening, at 7 o'clock, will hold their "monthly convocation meeting" in their place of worship. The subject of the evening will be Sunday school work, when addresses and papers will be given on the different phases of Sunday school work, interspersed with suitable service of song. The practical character of this topic should secure good attendance and attention.

Free Press: On this continent national and municipal boodling has become too common to excite surprise. Toronto is furnishing the latest civic scandal topic. If voters continue to elect as representatives, second-rate men of doubtful integrity, and to regard municipal duties as an uninteresting bore, universal franchise and the much vaunted government for the people by the people will soon become a farce. Very shortly Winnipeg will have an opportunity to give a lease of power to aspiring aldermen. Will a competent and intelligent body be elected; or will a number of imperfect performers be sent up to the council? The business of governing a city is one in which experience, at least, is valuable as in any other business. Combined with honesty it is all that is wanted at present; with a desire to wrestle with present requirements instead of waiting for the Millennium.

China and Japan!

HIROSKIMA, Nov. 1st, '94.

It is reported here to-day in influential quarters that China intends to sue for peace immediately on the basis of Korean independence and payment of an indemnity.

The report is generally accepted as true, but this will not affect the large assortment of Fancy Goods, Office Supplies, Stationery, and a new Crepe Tissue Paper for lamps and flowers which has just arrived and which I bought largely at "sacrifice" prices before the war commenced, and I do not buy to keep but to sell.
